ST. STANISLAUS JUNIOR DIVISION SPONSORS DANCE

Last Saturday evening the members of the Junior Division of St. Stanislaus sponsored the first dance of the season which proved very successful. The social was held in the St. Stanislaus Gym which was artistically decorated for the occasion. Although the decorative scheme was along rustic lines, reminiscent of southern oaks with hanging moss, the dress and music was more formal. A very enjoyable evening was made more so by the presence of a large number of lovely young ladies and their handsome escorts. Refreshments were served throughout the dance.

The entire project was a grand success and the members of the Junior division are to be complimented for their splendid efforts. They in turn take this opportunity to express their gratitude to the members of the faculty, students and friends who helped to make the affair so enjoyable.

Harnett T. Kane Reviews His Latest Book "The Bayous of Louisiana"

Harnett T. Kane, newspaper correspondent and author of "Louisiana Hayride" and "The Bayous of Louisiana" captivated the large group who were at the Episcopal Parish House on Tuesday afternoon to hear him review "The Bayous of Louisiana."

Mr. Kane knows and loves his Bayou Country and brought it to his audience with a skillful touch. He brought the glamorous panorama of Louisiana old and new to his listeners in a most charming manner and kept them informed, entertained and amused throughout his too short review.

The audience easily followed him through the St. Martinville-New Iberia area of the Teche Bayou of Bayou Lafourche, "the longest village street in the world" into the land of pirates and hidden treasure around Bayou Barataria; through the bayous about Houma and the fishers of oysters to Grand Isle and Cheniere Caminada; through the bayous of the prairie sections about Lafayette and other waterways. He told of many of the quaint customs which still cling to the Louisiana region.

Mr. Kane spoke of the Arcadians "who found in Louisiana a refuge from an 18th century tyranny" and he continued, "their descendants today are sending their sons to help free their former home, France, from the Nazis."

Mr. Kane's graphic picture of the ceremony of placing the candles on the graves of the dead at night and then lighting them; of the long procession led by the Priest and the inspiring sight when the lights appear all over the cemetery was most interesting. He told of the graves that had no candles and how some one who had many candles placing one or more on the graves of those whose family had moved away.

Space will not admit of a full reproduction of this splendid review of a delightfully refreshing book but Mrs. Kenneth Knoblock and the library board are due a vote of thanks for having given the group this rare treat.

Completes Basic Training At Submarine School

HENRY A. TOMASICH, Q.M.

Henry A. Tomasich, 21, quartermaster, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Tomasich, 403 Third Street, Bay St. Louis, has completed basic training at the Submarine School, Submarine Base, New London, Conn., for duty with our growing fleet of undersea fighters.

Q.M. Tomasich will be entitled to wear the twin dolphin insignia of the submarine service after further experience aboard a submarine during which he must demonstrate to his commanding officer that he is fully qualified to carry out the duties of his rate. The insignia is regarded as a mark of distinction throughout the Navy.

A former student of St. Stanislaus High, Tomasich made the football and basketball squads there. He joined the Navy three years ago, had recruit training in San Diego, duty on board aircraft carrier and saw action at Pearl Harbor and Guadalcanal.

The Submarine School, the only one of its kind in the Navy, is attended by a picked group of men who must pass special physical, mental, and psychological tests.

The school work takes place not only in classrooms and laboratories, but also in numerous training submarines in which students master the actual techniques of operating the powerful fighting craft.

Many students at Submarine School already have seen battle as members of surface ship crews before volunteering for submarine duty.

Induction Policy During The Christmas Holidays

The induction of selective service men will be suspended on December 24, 25 and 26, 1943, and January 1 and 2, 1944. In addition, no men will report to reception centers of the army on those dates. The navy will grant 8 days inactive duty for those inducted on November 18; 9 days to those inducted November 17 and December 18; 10 days to those inducted December 17; and 11 days to those inducted December 23.

This procedure will permit those men inducted to spend the holiday with their families. Colonel Long, State director, stated that this policy of the army and the navy would be a great assistance to all concerned, particularly pre-Pearl Harbor fathers who are being inducted thru-out the nation on these dates.

TWENTY-SEVENTH CLASH BETWEEN RIVAL TEAMS SUNDAY

Fleas-Flies Of St. Stanislaus Give Proceeds To Brother Peter's Christmas Tree Fund

On Sunday afternoon at 2 P. M. the twenty-seventh annual Flea-Fly gridirons classic will be contested. This year as usual great enthusiasm is being aroused concerning the game which has always proved one of the major attractions in Bay St. Louis. For real honest-to-goodness football with all the thrills and spills of big time pigskin play no one need go farther than the St. Stanislaus stadium when this annual clash is staged.

Of the more than a hundred members of the Tiny Rocks, Brother Leonard, mentor of the Flea-Fly affair, has chosen about seventy-five players who have been divided into two equal squads of three teams each. A ninety pound, twelve years of age limit has been set as the maximum for the members of this squad. The players are drawn from the small boys of St. Joseph's Academy, the St. Stanislaus Day School and from St. Stanislaus proper.

Luddy Gullotta, A. Giascona and J. Walsh will coach the Fleas while Frank Thomas, Norman Toups and Floyd Toups will handle the Flies. These competent strategists all with previous experience are already conducting bawling plays and intricate maneuvers calculated to demoralize the opposition.

The proceeds of this game go for a most worthy and charitable cause—to swell the amount of Brother Peter's Christmas Tree Fund. The price of admission is 15c for children and 40c for adults. Everyone is urged to buy a ticket not only for the sake of the game but also to insure a Merry Christmas for the underprivileged children of the vicinity.

SOUTHERN FARM MARKET SUMMARY

Except for cotton and tobacco, prices of Southern farm products held about steady during the past week, according to the War Food Administration. Trading, however, was less active because of reduced marketings during the Thanksgiving holiday period. Cotton demand was poor, and prices plunged downward to a new low for the season to date. New York futures closed on November 27 at 19.20c. Tobacco prices lost $1.00-3.00 on most grades in Virginia and North Carolina. Excesses were wrappers on Old Belt markets, which dropped $6.00-9.00, and common tobacco which gained $1.00-3.00. Season's sales so far on Old Belt markets have totaled 163,593,784 pounds, averaging $40.96 a hundred; Middle Belt 110,589,200 lbs. at $40.19; and on eastern North Carolina markets 290,003,778 pounds at $40.09.

Recent heavy hog movement is encouraging from the standpoint of possible leveling off in marketing and slaughter later on. During the past month, receipts at 12 midwestern markets increased 44 percent over the corresponding period last year.

Current unloads in Georgia, Florida and Alabama are running about 46 percent heavier than a year ago. Prices closed steady to slightly weaker with tops in the south-eastern market area at $12.75, Nashville $13.45, cash buying stations $13.10-13.35.

Cattle markets generally were active and firm although a tendency towards weakness on lower grade offerings was still apparent in some southern areas. Most common to medium steers and heifers at Nashville sold from $8.50-11.25 with plain kinds downward to $7.00 and less. Lighter receipts were the strengthening factor, but arrivals continued to run more than in the corresponding week last year.

Live poultry prices held firm at ceiling levels. Turkeys were very scarce, and supplies cleaned up at fast markets. Moderate offerings of other fowl were sufficient for demand, although fryers were becoming less plentiful. Eggs held steady on light receipts, although prices were again lowered a cent a dozen to correspond with reduced ceiling levels.

Fresh eggs were still very scarce. Florida continued to furnish most of the fruit and vegetable shipments from the Southern region, with moderate movement last week of beans and grapefruit, liberal shipments of oranges and light movement of cucumbers, peppers, yellow squash, tomatoes, corn, okra, eggplant, tangerines, avocados, and escarole. Light to moderate amounts of spinach moved from Kentucky and Virginia and small amounts of Italian broccoli from the Carolinas. Sweet potato movement was moderate throughout the Region. Turnips and greens were trucked mostly to nearby markets. Prices on most items were steady.

REACHES STATES SAFELY

Mrs. W. P. Cassidy had a telephone message from Lt. Cassidy to the effect that he had arrived safely at Fort Devlin, Massachusetts, and is in the hospital there. He is being transferred to the Foster General Hospital at Jackson and expects to arrive there within the next ten days.

Lt. Cassidy after completing his combat missions out of England was at an airport awaiting plane transportation to the United States when he and a companion took a short flight in a small two-seat plane. This crashed and Lt. Cassidy suffered a fracture of both legs and has been in a hospital there since. Though his limbs are still in casts he has been allowed to come to the States.

Mrs. Cassidy's friends are rejoicing with her in the safe arrival of Lt. Cassidy.

Arthur Scalfide Speaks Before Rotary Club

At the regular Wednesday noon luncheon of the Rotary Club Arthur Scalfide, member of the local War Price and Ration Board, was guest speaker. Mr. Scalfide spoke of the many problems which come before the board and of the unjustifiable criticism which it receives. This, he said, is due to the fact that the public is not sufficiently informed of the inner workings of the board and do not understand why certain regulations have to be lived up to.

He plead with individual members of the board to try to make explanations when they hear the board criticized and said the members of the board are not serving because they want to but because it is a patriotic duty which some one has to do.

1944 Farm Goals Call For New High Acreage Of Needed Crops

Achievement of the 1944 farm goals, which call for a new high in total acreage of vitally needed crops, will depend largely on the extent to which farmers carry out practices that will increase yields per acre says C. C. Stone, County Agent.

With this basic fact in mind, state and national agricultural officials have designed the 1944 agricultural conservation program to help farmers make the maximum contribution to food production.

"The practices of the 1944 production program have been limited to those which will give immediate and substantial returns," Mr. Stone explained.

Some of the important production practices for which AAA assistance is offered are application of lime and superphosphate, which materially increase yields; growing green manure and cover crops, especially winter cover crops, to prevent soil loss and add nitrogen and organic matter; terracing and draining to conserve soil and water; harvesting legume and grass seed needed for planting larger acreages; and cleaning, seeding, fertilizing, liming, and mowing pastures.

More funds have been made available for production practices than in previous years. Payment rates are more nearly sufficient to cover the cost of carrying out the practices now needed and that could readily be carried out, Mr. Stone stated.

Realizing that full and effective participation in the program will depend on a clear understanding by farmers of the provisions and benefits of the program, Mr. Stone says that plans are being made by committees in cooperation with other agencies to carry complete details of the program to every farmer in the county.

A-12, V-12 TESTS GIVEN NOVEMBER 9 AT STANISLAUS

For the second time the army specialized training program and the navy program tests were administered here at St. Stanislaus. The examinations were given between the hours of nine and eleven on the morning of November 9. Only three students at St. Stanislaus were eligible to take the tests, namely Tracy Hendrix, Norman Toups and Floyd Toups.

The A-12 and V-12 examinations were open to high school seniors in their last semester and who had attained their seventeenth year. Graduates of the program will serve as specialists, technicians and officers in the armed forces.

Seventeen-year-olds who designate Army preference and qualify on the test are offered military scholarships in the Army program. However, the Army requires that all draftees receive basic military training before being placed in the army specialized training program.

On the other hand those who qualify under the Navy program may express a preference for the navy, marine corps or coast guard. After their acceptance by the board set up for their examination they may choose the colleges on the navy list to which they would prefer to attend and the course of study they would like to follow.

The tests will again be given here at St. Stanislaus some time next Spring and many more seniors will be eligible to take them at that time.

Correction For Registrants Of Selective Service Found With Remediable Defects

A plan for correction of all registrants of selective service in Mississippi, found with remediable defects, was developed Monday. Men with hernia or syphilis will be accepted for service in the army. Those men found with infected ears, too large hernias, cysts, and many other defects will be operated upon at home and corrected. Hospital space and physicians are available for this work in Mississippi. Educational, social service and health histories will be prepared on all selective service registrants. Those lacking sufficient intelligence and education will be schooled in classes for illiterates.

Details are being submitted to the physicians, hospitals, schools, and local selective service boards as a result of a conference at state headquarters of selective service on this pioneering work in which Colonel L. W. Long, state director, presided.

Those in attendance were: Major N. C. House—state medical officer, selective service system. Dr. E. Leroy Wilkins—president, state medical association.

Dr. J. P. Wall—State chairman of procurement and assignment service for physicians.

Dr. J. F. Underwood, State health officer.

Dr. Dan Williams, chairman council, selective service association.

Mr. Hoy Hathorn, Secretary, State hospital commission.

Mr. W. F. Bond, public welfare commissioner, accompanied by Miss Kathryn McFarland.

Mr. J. S. Vandiver, state superintendent of education, accompanied by Mr. E. R. Jobe.

Major D. B. Monksy, medical examiner induction team, Camp Shelby, Mississippi.

Lt. Musgrave, psychologist, induction station, Camp Shelby, Mississippi.

Lt.-Colonel J. L. Davis, chief, manpower division and legal advisor—selective service system.

Dr. A. L. Gray—state board of health, in charge of venereal disease program for Mississippi.

"The complete cooperation of all persons concerned to help the man who is eligible for service, but is unable to fight for his country because of some relatively easily correctable defect for which he has been rejected, was noted throughout the meeting," said Col. Long.

ANNIVERSARY OF PEARL HARBOR

THIS coming December 7th will mark the second anniversary of the treacherous aerial attack perpetrated upon Pearl Harbor by the false-hearted Japanese Empire. It was on this memorable day that our nation received its greatest shock—aggression of its neutrality by a military power which had previously shown itself to be assuringly faithful in all relations. Such was the damage inflicted on that island base of ours and so colossal was the number of dead strewn round the bombarded area of Pearl Harbor after the unexpected assault that last year at this time we were very doubtful whether or not our nation would withstand so tremendous defeats as dealt us by the Japanese. However the people of America fully realizing the prime necessity of united effort, welded the nation into a unit charged with determination and will to win the ultimate victory. Once that easily ignitable spark of patriotism was animated and once we resolved to avoid the infringement of our democratic rights by these Japs, we immediately harnessed all our resources and industries into providing us with weapons sufficiently potent to overcome the fiercest of enemies. Fortunately the second anniversary will be quite more glorious and indeed far different from the first. Now we can observe with great confidence the advances made by our forces on every front against our perfidious adversary. Moreover, we are certain that if we continue to practice self-sacrifice and elevate our spirits to heights beyond those of the enemy, we can and will attain the final victory.

Thus December 7, 1943 will go down in the annals of history as an anniversary of unparalleled significance, for it was two years ago on this day that our nation was struck down to her knees in utter surprise. For a nation that is swept off her feet such as ours was, the rapid comeback from a defensive stage to a powerful offensive stand is an achievement deserving great praise. Had it not been for the justified attitude of revenge, the attack upon Pearl Harbor would have turned out to be the most tragic episode of our nation.

Thanks to God, to our fore-sighted President, and to the undying spirit of the American people we can say with assurance that we are well on the highway to victory and arriving there at a very accelerated speed.—Frank Thomas, St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaw.

A REASONABLE REQUEST

MUCH thought is being given to the problem of providing re-employment for men returning from military service. So far as possible, old jobs are being kept available. But this does not apply to one group in the service whose jobs were the result of years of training and individual effort.

When a doctor goes to war his job cannot be preserved for him. His patient must go elsewhere. When he returns, he must find new patients, a slow, tedious task that will not be made any easier by the fact that tens of thousands of other doctors released from the armed forces will be doing the same thing.

However, the doctors are not kicking. All the average doctor asks is a chance to work in the way that he is best fitted by environment and training—the way of the individual doctor under the traditional American medical system. It is a reasonable request.

MAJORITY TO RATIFY TREATIES

TO prevent "the destruction of peace through the stubborn opposition of a wilful minority," Henry Breckenridge, former Assistant Secretary of War, proposes immediate passage of a constitutional amendment transferring peace-approval power from two-thirds of the Senate to a majority of both Houses of Congress.

The Colonel points out that a majority of one in the Houses of Congress can "plunge this nation into bloody war," but that representatives of less than a tenth of the population in the Senate alone "can destroy any peace."

The constitutional provision which requires a two-thirds vote of the Senate to ratify treaties undoubtedly gives to a minority absolute veto power upon the foreign relations of the United States.

There is a widespread feeling, throughout the country, that this is dangerous and that some measure should be taken to permit a majority of the Senate or of both houses, to ratify treaties.

SHOP AND MAIL EARLY

FOR years the people of the United States have been advised to "Shop Early" and "Mail Early" in connection with Christmas buying.

This year, in addition to the usual advantages, there is the added warning that, because of dwindling stocks, the early shoppers will get the benefit of selecting items which may disappear.

During December the mails of the nation are crowded and postal service, overwhelmed by a huge volume, slows up. There are delays in delivery. It is just as easy to do your Christmas mailing now as later and it's a form of insurance against disappointment.

Just because Thanksgiving Day has passed there is no reason why we can't continue to be thankful for our great and manifold blessings.

Individuals who are unwilling to fight for their country and their civilization, ought to abandon both and seek some place on the earth more suitable to their specie.

So far as we are concerned there is no civilian who can run the war as well as our expert leaders, in the Army and the Navy. It's their job and, so far, they have done it in admirable fashion.

Thanksgiving Day

Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, Nov. 25th, was very generally observed over the state. Even with all the adverse conditions upon the country there is still much for which we can be devoutly thankful, and perhaps nowhere else is that more literally true than in the State of Mississippi. We have just finished harvesting a good crop, the health of the people is generally good and there is a reasonable amount of prosperity. Our thoughts and our very heartbeats are with our men and women overseas, and our earnest prayer is that they will not have to spend another Thanksgiving Day on the battlefield, that before the ensuing 12 months roll around the instruments of death will be silent and the victory complete.

Accidental Deaths

Beyond question one of the greatest problems of the country today is that of accidental deaths, not alone in traffic wrecks, but in factories, on the farm and in the home. In the first nine months of 1943 Mississippi had 214 people killed in car wrecks, and more than that number killed in other accidents. The Public Safety Council of Chicago keeps a close record on all accidents in all states and they estimate, with three months yet unreported, that accidents in the United States in 1943 will run as follows: Deaths: At work, 18,000; at home, 31,500; in traffic, 22,000; elsewhere, 14,400. Approximately 89,000 deaths. The injured will be 9,250,000 and the economic cost $5,000,000,000.

Report—Motor Vehicle

The biennial report of the Motor Vehicle Commission for the two years ending June 30th, 1943, carries some interesting information. For instance, during the biennium gross amount of tax money collected from gasoline sales was $26,754,897.51, which was $511,319.51 in excess of the previous biennium. After all road bonds falling due had been paid more than ten million dollars of this gasoline fund was returned to the counties to be used on local road projects.

The Speakership

As the legislative session is now but 30 days in the future, interest in the Speakership is picking up, and a number of prominent members of the House are perfectly willing to serve in that capacity. A list published last Sunday, compiled by the Commercial-Appeal correspondent at Jackson, mentions the following named as candidates: Walter Sillers and J. A. Thigpen, both of Bolivar County; Hilton Watts, Washington County; Dave Glass, Attala County; E. C. Fishel, Forrest County; Jesse Shanks, Lamar County; F. D. Hewitt, Pike County; L. E. Stubbs, Covington County; Noel Monogan, Lee County; Curtis Swango, Panola County; George P. Cosar, Tallahatchie County.

Farmers Doing Their Bit

Mississippi farmers have cooperated wholeheartedly in the matter of producing food crops, essential at any time but more so during the war period. The Mississippi Experiment Station has figured out that the farms in this state, the production of the crops and the attention to livestock, require 61,198,800 man days of labor. The major part of this must be done in a very few months. Efforts will be made to increase production in 1944 as a direct contribution to the war effort and at the same time a source of revenue to the farmers.

Cotton Ginned

Cotton ginned in the state up to November 14th shows 1,657,815 bales. In all cotton states the total ginned to November 14 is 9,930,953. This is around a million bales under the ginnings of the same time last year.

Rice Returns

Attorney Greek L. Rice returned last week from Chicago where he attended the national meeting of Attorneys General. In these annual meetings the chief law officers of the states find many legal problems for discussion.

President Humphrey Honored

Dr. G. D. Humphrey, president of Mississippi State College, has been appointed on two important committees of the National Association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities. Both committees deal with essentials of organization and conduct of the 57-year-old Association and its member-institutions.

State's Birthday

On December 10th Mississippi will have a birthday—the 126th anniversary of the state's admission into the union, which took place on December 10th, 1817. The first governor of the new state was David Holmes who had served around eight years as governor of Mississippi Territory. The first constitution of the state was framed and adopted in a church at Washington, a small town out from Natchez, and it was there also that the first legislature of the state met. In 1935 a handsome marker was erected on the site of the old church, marking the spot where the state was first recognized as a member of the union.

Press Staff Changes

Many familiar faces formerly seen around the Capitol Press Room are not seen there now. Clyde Mathews, formerly with the Daily News, is now in the Army Air Corps; Drew Shankle formerly with the Columbus Commercial-Dispatch, is now with the Commercial-Appeal; Aubrey Ballard, formerly Capitol reporter for the Clarion-Leodger, and Ed Lipscomb, formerly of Jackson, are both with the National Cotton Council; "Slim" Suttle, former reporter around the Capitol, is now with the National Press Club in Washington.

Forest Fires—Don't Start Them.

Help your state to prevent destroying millions by fire. Burning of the woodlands do not destroy boll weevils as many believe.

Raking Around—

An interesting picture in the newspapers last week was that of Lt. Alice Nevells, former secretary of the Mississippi Bar Association and a prominent club woman, shown in the attitude of buying a war bond from Mrs. B. M. Howorth, head of the Federation of Women's Clubs in the state. Mrs. Nevells is now with the WACS where she is making a good record. A prize job among the WACS was that of secretary to Gen. Mark W. Clark, of the Fifth Army now fighting in Italy and was awarded last week to Pvt. Geraldine Horne of Lucedale, Miss. The fourth War Loan Drive will begin January 18th and its goal will be 14 billion dollars. Ike H. Thorn, veteran clerk at the Edwards Hotel, has been appointed assistant manager of the hotel. Have a Coca-Cola = Welcome home

... a way to revive old times

He's delighted to find his own room unchanged—everything just as he left it. He's pleased, too, to discover other familiar things, such as, the pause that refreshes with ice-cold Coca-Cola. This happy custom is part of American home life. Yes, for friendly refreshment nothing takes the place of Coca-Cola. Have a "Coke" is the universal invitation to relax and be yourself. For around the world Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes, —has become the familiar greeting of friendly folks.

Folks, you're doing a Swell Job

WE WANT to salute the people of this community on their fine response to the appeal for more pulpwood. Every boy in the service will be proud of the way the home folks are backing him up.

This present pulpwood drive is bringing results. It has brought in pulpwood from people who never cut any before. It has been a big help toward meeting the dangerous shortage that threatens our war effort.

The danger is far from over. It will take millions and millions of cords to win the war. There will never be enough to go around—not as long as the shooting lasts.

From Robert A. Taconi, Mo. M. M. 316, Receiving Station, Navy Yard (R), South Carolina.

"Mr. Favre:
I am writing a few lines because I haven't been getting your paper lately and I really miss it because it gives all the news of the home town and plenty of us boys like to know most of what goes on at home—at least, I do.

In about a month I will be awarded the Medal of the Legion of Merit, which I won in the Sicilian invasion on the 10th of July. It's a new medal, but it is the third highest that the Navy gives.

Thanking you for sending me the paper, because I really enjoy reading it, I am

"Dear Sir:
Just a few lines to let you know that I appreciate your sending me the Echo. I really enjoy reading it very much, as it keeps me informed as to what is going on at home. Bay St. Louis is my home and always will be. When this war is over I hope to come back to Bay St. Louis and settle down.

I am now going to Lighter Than Air School. Will be in school for three months in a squadron I will receive my wings. You can guess what 'lighter than air' is by the picture of a non-rigid airship on the top of this page. I will appreciate it if you will change my address and send the paper to me here.
I will sign off now. I remain,

V-5 REQUIREMENT STANDARDS LOWERED

The Navy's Recruiting Service, taking to the air this week under its Flight Training school program for young boys, offered a "winter bargain" to 17, as well as 18-year-old high school seniors. Thousands more became eligible to enter V-5, Naval Aviation, under the new ruling.

The V-5 program was hitherto limited to 17-year-old seniors who would graduate by March 1, 1944. Now enlistments are open to 17-year-old seniors who will graduate by July 1, 1944, and to 18-year-old seniors who will finish high school by March 1, 1944.

Seniors of both age groups may enlist at once, Navy recruiters for this area disclosed, although they will not be called until after graduation. Before entering flight training additional civilian schooling will be allowed enlistees for at least eight months with a V-12 unit at some university.

Seventeen and 18-year-olds may apply at Navy recruiting stations for preliminary examinations. Selective Service induction for the latter age group will be effected through the Navy.

number. I suppose that is what is causing the delay. I wrote my Dad and told him to please advise you of my change in address.

I am grateful to get the paper, because I know more about what is going on at home by getting one paper, than if I would get a hundred letters from home.

Wishing you success in the term to come, as ever

VICTORY PULPWOOD CAMPAIGN FOR 1943

The next few weeks will see the success or failure of the Victory Pulpwood Campaign for 1943 and determine whether our boys on the fighting fronts are to get everything they need to carry on their attack against the Axis. Mr. Earl Porter of International Paper Company, Southern Kraft Division, Woodlands, Department, Mobile, Alabama, said.

"We have only a short time to reach the 13,000,000-cord goal which the War Production Board has set as the minimum needs for the Army, Navy, and other military services and essential civilian industries," Mr. Porter said.

"This pulpwood producing area has done a fine job in the last three months, but it has a bigger job ahead if we are to meet the minimum 1943 requirements estimated by the War Production Board.

"The drive to Cut-a-Cord of pulpwood for Every Local Boy in Service should produce enough pulpwood to overcome the threatened shortage providing every area reaches its quota of extra cords.

The pulpwood supply in the United States has reached a critical stage, and can be increased only by greater efforts of the home army," Mr. Porter said. "Pulpwood has become an invaluable material of war, replacing thousands of tons of scarce metals, and it is our patriotic duty now to get more trees out of the woods and into the fight.

Pulpwood plays an important part in the daily life of our fighting men. An idle tree on a farm woodlot can be converted quickly into gunpowder for our troops on land and sea, into gas mask filters, into containers for first-aid kits and K-rations—into paper parachutes for emergency supplies, and a hundred other necessary pieces of war equipment.

"Surgical dressings are now made of pulpwood, life-saving blood plasma is wrapped in it, finished product dried foods are safely packaged in paper bags, and countless tons of supplies have been dragged ashore by our invasion armies in waterproof paper V-Boxes.

"During recent months pulpwood has saved thousands of tons of steel, aluminum, zinc and tin. It has proven an excellent substitute for rubber, cotton, burlap and other commodities. More than 50,000,000 lbs. of twine and rope have been made of pulpwood and as much more pulpwood has probably gone into protective cases for shells and bombs.

"One pulpwood tree will make powder for 7,500 bullets for a Gerand rifle, 35 shells for a 105 mm naval or land gun, or two shells for one of the big guns of the now-famous battleship South Dakota. One tree will also provide the material for 67 paper vests for our high altitude aviators, 137 hospital waddings for a field hospital or 122 paper (supply) parachutes for isolated troops in the field.

"Our farmers have worked hard and loyally since Pearl Harbor providing food for our fighting men. It is just as necessary to carry on now to produce the materials which make the V-Boxes in which the food is packed and shipped. Pulpwood is now converted into hundreds of war materials—smokeless gun powder, supply parachutes, surgical dressings, shell containers, and many other items needed to carry on successful warfare."

Pulpwood products are also necessary in essential civilian occupations, Mr. Porter said. With the increased shortage of lumber, paper and paperboard have been used successfully in the manufacture of egg crates, fruit boxes, poultry feeders and brooders. Paper has also provided an excellent substitute for mauls, jute and hemp in the manufacture of twine and rope.

The government has recognized the farmer as the principal hope of increased pulpwood production indicated by the fact that the War Manpower Commission has declared pulpwood cutting an essential occupation and has advised local selective Boards to credit farmers for time spent at that work. The Office of Price Administration has advised pulpwood producers who need extra gas, tires and trucks to tell their local rationing boards they are cut-pulpwood.

Points For Fat Savers

To spur the kitchen fats salvage campaign, OPA has announced it will authorize meat dealers and other fat salvagers effective December 13 to give two points a pound for fats returned by housewives and others.

Meanwhile, the War Production Board which directs the fat salvage campaign has asked housewives not to hold accumulations until Dec. 13 but to keep a steady flow of fats moving to butchers so that glycerine manufacturers will not be obliged to slow down their munitions program.

Meat dealers who receive salvaged fats have been authorized to give home fat savers brown stamps from Book 3, it was explained by Major W. E. Holcomb, District Director of the Office of Price Administration at Jackson. Later, he added, when one-point ration tokens are used in making point change for stamps the tokens will be used in payment for fats instead of the paper stamps.

OPA Authority Upheld

Federal Judge Archibald Lovett of Savannah Ga. has upheld authority of OPA to forbid persons from dealing in rationed commodities when they have violated rationing regulations.

He overruled the complaint filed by a Savannah filling station operator who had been suspended from dealing in gasoline for 90 days because of rationing violations.

No Increase in Butter

Butter for civilian use continues to be scarce for the next few months—a joint statement issued by the Office of Price Administration and the War Food Administration says.

Lost Books to Washington

Under a revision in the procedure covering the return of lost ration books through the mails, books which the post office is unable to deliver to the persons to whom the books were issued will be sent to the Washington post office and will be turned over to the national OPA office there.

Until now, lost books which could not be delivered to the addressee were sent to local boards which are required to meet the postage due charges on such books.

Pork Not Point Free

In order to increase the market outlet for large amounts of pork now being produced, OPA recently cut by two points the ration point value of all pork items. For similar reasons, the War Food Administration temporarily lifted its restrictions on the amount of pork which a farmer may deliver from his farm.

OPA officials, however, have emphasized that these changes do not mean that pork, or any other rationed meat, may now be transferred point free.

Change in vehicle registration number—When the registration number of a vehicle is changed, the new number must be changed on the ration book or folder and on the Tire Inspection Record by the ration holder himself. The change will no longer be made by the Hancock County Ration Board or by a motor vehicle registration official.

Congressional Sidelights

by Congressman Wm. M. Colmer

New Tax Law

A little more than a decade ago comparatively few people in the United States ever came in contact with a Federal warrant or check, and an equally small number were called upon to pay taxes to the Federal Government. Prior to that time about the only Government checks seen in circulation were those paid to some Federal juror, postmaster of other Federal employees, and disabled veterans, which was a comparatively small group. In fact, a Government check was a rarity, and about the only people paying Federal taxes were the large income earners. The average Mississippian thought of the Federal income tax as something paid by the millionaires.

But when Mr. Roosevelt embarked upon his program of defeating the depression in 1933, and later when we became involved in the greatest war civilization and Christianity have ever been called upon to combat, this all changed. Today Government checks are possibly even more common than individual bank checks. Government spent dollars are now the chief medium of exchange. And practically every citizen, including the wage earner, is called upon to contribute his portion of the taxes to at least partially replenish the Federal treasury.

All of this has resulted in a continuous hunt for new sources of Federal revenue. This treasure hunt has been going on with increasing strides constantly for the past ten years. The result is that the income tax brackets have been continuously raised to the point of saturation in many cases. Therefore, it was not surprising that the House last week turned down the Administration's program for a new tax bill of ten and a half billion dollars. The House took the position that it could not profitably raise these income tax brackets. It felt that the incentive to earn would be killed. In some instances the Government is already taking in excess of ninety cents out of every dollar earned by some of the bigger corporations. Even the small wage earner was beginning to complain about the rates on his income extracted by the Government. On the other hand, the Administration's vigorous opposition to a sales tax blocked the imposition of a tax of this type. A deadlock resulted, and out of this grew the new tax bill of only $2,142,900,000.00, which the House passed over the Administration's protest by the one-sided vote of 200 to 27.

The bill now goes to the Senate where Chairman George of the Senate Finance Committee intimates that it will not be considerably raised. Both houses have been driving away to try to enact the bill into law so that it will become effective January 1st. The prospects of that being done are good.

AT A & G THEATER NEW CROSBY FILM "DIXIE" SUN-MONDAY

Paramount's Musical is 1st Technicolor Minstrel Show With Dorothy Lamour

At long last Hollywood is giving us a real show! And from everything heard about it, it's been well worth waiting for. Thanks to Paramount, the jitterbug generation is going to have a chance to see—and hear—what young America was dancing to and singing a hundred years ago, when Bing Crosby's great new musical, "Dixie," comes to town next Sunday and Monday for the entertainment of the A. & G. Theater patrons.

Bing plays the role of Dan Emmett, the banjo troubadour who wrote "Dixie," the song that comes near to being our national anthem, plus many other tunes. There are six old tunes in the picture that Bing sings, including "Dixie," "Old Dan Tucker," "Turkey in the Straw," "Buffalo Gals," "Last Rose of Summer" and "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot."

The movie tells the story of the formation of the Virginia Minstrels by Bing, as Dan Emmett, with Billy Wolfe, Lynne Overman and Eddie Foy, Jr., rounding out the original quartette that subsequently grew to a minstrel troupe of forty—count 'em, forty—men. New Orleans, the scene of their first triumph, is where Bing meets Dorothy Lamour who is co-starred with him in the film. Dottie plays the part of Millie Cook, unsympathetic landlady of a boarding house for deadbeat actors. Of course it's different to be unsympathetic to Bing for very long and in spite of the fact that when she meets him, he's another out-of-work boomer, Dottie falls for him and vice-versa.

However, there's another girl in Bing's life—Marjorie Reynolds, his sweetheart of "Holiday Inn." The romance that evolves is played to the tune of six old hits and six new contenders for the Hit Parade—"Sunday, Monday or Always," "If You Please," "She's From Missouri," "A Horse That Knows the Way Back Home," "Kinda Peculiar Brown" and "Laughing Tony," all of them written by Johnny Burke and James Van Heusen.

From all accounts "Dixie" which is Bing's first picture in Technicolor, is a musical that ought to provide a very pleasant respite to those smart enough to take advantage of it.

ate Finance Committee intimates that it will not be considerably raised. Both houses have been driving away to try to enact the bill into law so that it will become effective January 1st. The prospects of that being done are good.

Blood Plasma

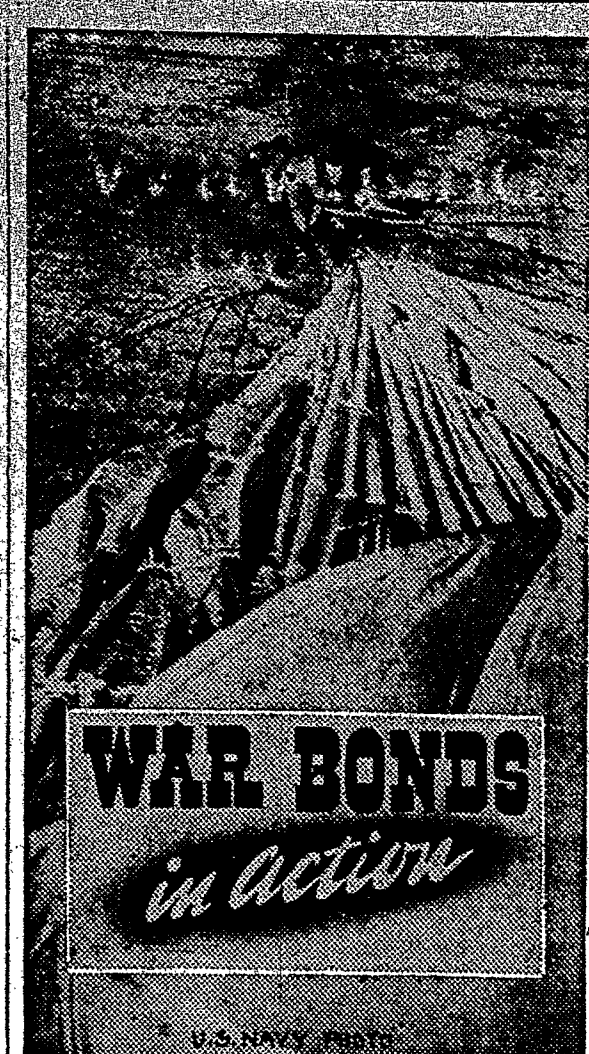

But while the nation's money bank has been constantly diminishing, the nation's blood bank has been constantly increasing. For it has been demonstrated in this war that Americans on the home front are willing to give their blood to save the boys on the battle front. Blood transfusions have been practiced by medical science for a number of years, and in the last war this practice saved a goodly number of American lives. But in the interim between World War I and World War II science developed the blood plasma which enables the blood from a civilian on the home front to be transferred many thousands of miles across the ocean to save the life of some American boy who has been shot down on the fields of battle. This has been made possible by the extraction of the red and white corpuscles from the blood taken from a normal, healthy person. This leaves the liquid portion of the blood and this liquid can be kept much longer than the whole blood.

The United States is using this blood plasma more extensively than any of the other countries. This is in part due to the fact that Russia, Germany and England are close enough to their battle fronts that it is not necessary for them to use blood plasma so extensively. It is said that the Japs are so indifferent to their own soldiers that they do not use this scientific method of saving the lives of their wounded soldiers.

It is interesting to note the increase in volume of blood donated by American citizens on the home front in the past few years. In 1941 Americans were giving up their blood for this purpose at the rate of 50,000 pints per year. In 1942 this contribution increased to 1,250,000 pints. While in 1943 it is estimated that some 4,000,000 pints of blood plasma will be furnished by Americans at home for the saving of American lives on the battlefield. All of this is handled exclusively by that great agency of mercy—The American Red Cross.

While the figures of 4,000,000 pints of blood seem staggering in proportion, it must be remembered that our armed forces have not yet reached the apex of casualties. As we advance in the Pacific and eventually invade the European continent all of this and possibly many additional millions of pints of blood will be needed. Of all the contributions that can be made by the people at home to shorten the war and save the lives of our boys none are more essential or more appealing to the American people than the donation of their blood.

Our boys must keep on fighting—we must keep on buying WAR BONDS until victory is won. Keep on BACKING THE ATTACK.
